Granite to retain closed campus

By Sam Hananel
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Citing a dramatic drop in crimes at and around Granite City High School during the past academic year, the School Board voted unanimously Tuesday night to continue its closed-campus policy for the coming year.

School Board President Roy Koberna, a Granite City police lieutenant, called the policy of closing the campus an "unqualified success."

"I hope we would take this into consideration to keep the campus closed another year," he said before the vote.

Since the board closed the campus a year ago, police statistics released Tuesday show that incidents in almost every crime category — including shoplifting, thefts, and weapon and drug possession — have markedly decreased.

When the high school had an open campus, students were allowed to leave school grounds for one hour during their lunch breaks.

The school staggers the lunch periods to, in effect, expand the cafeteria's capacity.

The statistics compared figures from September 1988 through February 1989 and from September 1989 through June 1990.

Koberna said he did not have time to sift through police records to collect the figures for March through June 1989 when he made the first analysis last year.

But Koberna said the remaining statistics from those missing months would have confirmed the results of the study even further.

School rehab decision delayed

By Sam Hananel

GRANITE CITY — The Board of Education will wait until at least mid-October before deciding on an architectural firm to help renovate or rebuild Granite City High School.

"We're going to ask all three firms to do the preliminary study and they will each make a proposal to us," said Superintendent C. W. Walsley. All proposals are due by Oct. 16, Walsley said.

He said the firms will submit their recommendations on which areas of the existing school should be renovated and which are currently in good condition.

They will study the original plans of the school and take a complete survey of the structural soundness of the school, he added.

The three firms being considered for employment are Thompson Design Group Inc. of Troy, Huff Architectural Group Inc. of Springfield and SAG-Sarti Architectural Group Inc. of Springfield.

The board has not decided whether parts of 76-year-old GCHS should be replaced or repaired. The competing proposals will help the board decide.

The data showed that: theft reports are down from 32 during the 1988-89 academic year to 17 during the 1989-90 year; shoplifting reports went from 49 to 8; checking of complaints about juvenile activities decreased from 123 to 5; domestic problems declined from 21 to 0; fight calls went from 25 to 24; weapon or drug possession reports decreased from 13 to 4; criminal damage to property was the same at 7 for both periods; and other reports were down from 52 to 9.

Koberna included incidents occurring at the Bellemore Village Shopping Center, National Food Store and other nearby businesses.

Would-be informer stabbed

MADISON — A Madison woman was in stable condition Wednesday afternoon after being stabbed in the chest Tuesday night in the 1500 block of Second Street.

Dana Chat, 22, was allegedly stabbed by one of two women she had threatened to report to police for selling a controlled drug substance, according to a police report.

An alleged witness to the stabbing, which took place at about 9 p.m., told police that Chat had shouted at the two women, telling them of her plans to report them to police.

The witness said a man displaying a small pistol then came over and told Chat, "You ain't got nothing to do with what they doin'. Just go on; mind your own business."

One of the alleged dealers then tried to kick Chat, the witness said, but she missed and fell down.

Chat then walked toward her, but the woman pulled a knife from her purse and stabbed Chat in the chest.

Police searched for area, but found none of the people allegedly involved. No arrests had been made as of 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Chat was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Flood's defense 'integrity'

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS — Granite City real estate broker Gaye Flood is "respected and known for her integrity" and is an "honest individual who never committed the actions for which she has been charged."

That, her attorney Pat Mathis told the jury yesterday, is what the defense will prove.

Flood's attorneys began presenting her case in federal court almost on the heels of their often-heated cross-examination of Paul Ray Bowler, which lasted a day and a half.

Bowler, a principal witness for the prosecution, testified over and over again that he had made false statements in order to obtain loans to buy real estate, but had done so only at the direction of Flood.

Flood is being tried on one felony count of conspiracy to defraud HUD and six felony counts of making false statements on applications to obtain government-insured loans through the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration.

Five of the six false-statement counts charge she induced Bowler to make false statements on separate applications for FHA-insured loans made through Delmar Financial in Clayton for purchase in 1984 of apartment buildings at 3916, 3924, 4032 and 4060 Oakmont Drive in Pontoon Beach and an FHA-insured loan made in 1984 through Lomas and Nettleton Co. of Granite City for a house at 2617 Pine St. in Granite City.

The other false-statement count charges she induced Jack and Sharon Orvig of Granite City to overstate their assets on an application for a VA loan for a house at 22 Victoria Drive in Pontoon Beach.

The conspiracy count covers all those alleged actions.

Bowler, vice president of the Granite City School Board and a former Granite City alderman, pleaded guilty in February 1989 to a single federal felony count of making a false statement on an application to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for a loan insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

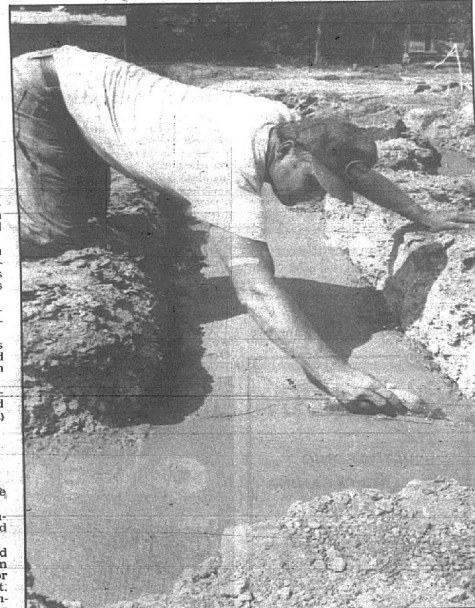

Bowler had been indicted in December 1988 on four counts of making false statements on FHA-insured loan applications, but the other three counts were dropped in return for his guilty plea and his agreement to testify against Flood.

Edward Maag, also an attorney for Flood, questioned Bowler's professed ignorance of the workings of real estate.

Bowler admitted he had grossly overstated his assets on the loan applications and had borrowed $73,000 to show he could afford downpayments on the Oakmont properties in order to get the loans.

Bowler also testified he understood he was borrowing more money for the property than he paid

New grant for Aquacenter filed

By Ed Gurney

COLLINSVILLE — The Collinsville convention authority voted at "special meeting" Tuesday to get in line for a state grant of up to $17 million for construction of the proposed Mid-America Aquacenter.

The village of Pontoon Beach also has been competing to be the Aquacenter site.

"This puts the (Collinsville) authority on record as asking for funding for the project if it goes forward," said John Bauman of Springfield, a consultant for economic development.

He said he is volunteering his services to help arrange the funding.

Wednesday was the deadline to apply for state grant money for civic centers during the coming year, Bauman said. The vote does not commit the authority to go ahead with the project, he said.

The grant application is filed out, but in a number of places says information is to be provided later.

The authority's action comes before final word has been received on a grant being sought from the Illinois Department of Conservation to pay for a comprehensive study of the Aquacenter project.

It appears certain a study grant of several hundred thousand dollars will be received, Bauman said.

At the request of Mayor Gene Brombolich and Eastport Plaza developer Gary Fears, the authority voted June 21 to seek the study grant. The Illinois General Assembly subsequently approved a bill containing money that could be used for the Top Venice school job McCaskill out, Vickers back

By Andy Stiering
Staff writer

VENICE — The Venice school board declined to renew Superintendent Charles McCaskill's contract and rehired co-superintendent Robert Vickers as interim superintendent.

McCaskill, 55, superintendent since January 1988, said he elected to retire rather than resume teaching, after the board told him his contract would not be renewed.

Vickers said he would serve for only one year.

Vickers said the school district was in "OK" shape financially, but he said he hoped to "get the district on its feet" during his one-year term.

The board accepted McCaskill's resignation one month ago. Vickers has been working full-time since July 2.

When the 1990-91 school term starts, Vickers said, he will work a limited schedule in order not to endanger his pension. He said he was limited to working 500 hours total during the school year (Sept. 1 through June 1).

Vickers was McCaskill's immediate predecessor in the job, having served as superintendent since 1974.

The board also appointed Venice High School Principal John Rush as assistant superintendent, to help Vickers with his duties.

"He'll handle personnel matters when I'm not around," Vickers said.

School Board Vice President Greg Katana said Tuesday the board had been dissatisfied with McCaskill, but he declined to be more specific. Board President Wilbert Glasper was out of town and could not be reached.

McCaskill, who lives in Edwardsville, said he did not want to discuss the reasons why the board decided not to rehire him. But he said he had no bitterness toward the board.

"It's not a problem," he said. McCaskill was a teacher and school administrator for 31 years — 25 years in Madison and three each in Brooklyn and Venice.

Free footwear fools 40 in sting

By Liz Quirin
Staff writer

BELLELEVILLE — Gotcha!

The Nabbar Athletic Footwear company opened its doors at a Swansea shopping center at 9 a.m. Monday. By mid-afternoon, the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department had arrested about 40 people, including one Venice man, in a sting operation. The individuals all were wanted on outstanding warrants.

Those named on the warrants went to the fake company set up at the shopping center to claim a free pair of tennis shoes.

They were promised the free shoes in a letter that they received from the Nabbar company, otherwise known as the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department.

"We tell them they will be fitted with shoes, and when they get back here (in the stock room) they get fitted for hand-cuffs," said Deputy Bob Robinson Jr.

The letters congratulated the winners on receiving a free pair of Nike, Reebok, Adidas, Converse or Puma tennis shoes that were valued from $39.95 to $129.95.

When some of the people arrested claimed the letter was entrapment, Sheriff Mearl Justus said, it was inducement, not entrapment.

The person named in the letter was asked to bring in the letter, a picture identification and come to the store to fill out a short survey.

The store front was equipped with posters from the various shoe manufacturers and new shoes loaned to the sheriff's department from local shoe stores.

"It was very inexpensive because a lot of people loaned us shoes," Justus said. "We had a lot of support from the business community."

The sting was run from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Some people tried to scam the scam by copying the letter and hand-writing their name and address on the front, Justus said.

When those letters were presented, the people were told they had a forged letter and were ineligible to win the shoes.

"When a 'customer' came into the store with a valid letter, the clerk (sheriff's department personnel) took the letter to the back to verify if the person was wanted on an outstanding warrant."

In the back about eight sheriff's department personnel checked the files and began to process paper work until the person was escorted to the back room to be arrested and await transportation to the county jail.

When they completed the survey, they were asked to step to the back room to be fitted for shoes, said Deputy Bob Robinson Jr.

Most of the people who came for their free shoes were wanted on bench warrants for failing to appear on court dates, said Capt. James Lay.

But letters also went to people wanted on fraud, forgery and murder charges too, Lay said.

"We sent out 1,000 letters," Justus said.

And the Nabbar company also had a bona fide telephone number that some of the letter recipients called to make sure the company was there, said Mel

Weith, Justus' administrative assistant.

As Dave Nabbar, Weith answered questions about shoe sizes and whether people could expect their size to be in stock.

The phone number was 277-FBYS (flooded by your sheriff), Weith said.

One man asked if he was still going to get the shoes, said Deputy Steve Mathis.

Another guy thought he was on candid camera and kept asking where the camera was, Mathis said.

When Charles Haynes of Venice came in, he brought his father, also named Charles Haynes.

"The letter came to me originally," said the older Haynes. "I thought I'd give it to my son, so I had him come."

The letter was meant for the son, said Sgt. David Nester.

"The law is the law," said the older Haynes when asked what he thought of the sting operation.

The younger man was wanted on traffic ticket violations, the father said.

3-year prison term for reckless homicide

EDWARDSVILLE — A 30-year-old Edwardsville man was sentenced to three years in prison Friday in the deaths of two Alton women in a May 1988 three-car accident.

John R. Warren pleaded guilty April 25 to two counts of reckless homicide and one count of driving under the influence of alcohol.

The crash occurred at the intersection of Niedringhaus Avenue and Illinois 3 in Granite City.

Warren, who was recommended for a minimum-security corrections facility by Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner, was responsible for an early-morning accident that killed Melissa A. Monroe, 23, and Sharon R. Abbott, 24, passengers in a 1983 Toyota driven by Charles D. Gibbons of Granite City.

Gibbons received only minor injuries in the collision, which occurred when Warren's vehicle struck the rear of the car. Gibbons was driving as Gibbons stopped for a traffic light.

The Gibbons auto then entered Niedringhaus Avenue, where it collided with another vehicle driven by Glinda G. Ingram of the 2800 block of Emzée Street in Granite City.

Sharing road with trucks a good safe-driving habit

The following is from the office of the Secretary of State

Jim Edgar

Safe highway driving includes sharing the road with big trucks. The following safety tips should help automobile drivers avoid potentially dangerous traffic situations involving trucks.

First, increase your following distance and reduce your speed when traveling behind a big truck. If you tailgate a truck and the driver stops unexpectedly, an accident may be unavoidable. Rear-end collisions with a truck tractor often result in underdrive, when a car slides into and under the truck, possibly decapitating the car's occupants.

Use your turn signals when passing or changing lanes, and stay away from the truck driver's blind spot. Cars riding alongside a truck are invisible to the truck driver. If you decide to pass the truck, be sure the road ahead is clear, announce your intentions by honking your horn and pass quickly.

Passing a truck creates a sudden wind gust that may cause you to lose control of your vehicle. Maintain a firm grip on the steering wheel to compensate for changes in wind. Do not return to the driving lane until the truck's entire cab appears in your rear view mirror.

In city traffic, remember that large trucks and buses often make right turns from the left lane. You may need to yield the right-of-way or back up at a stop light to allow for these unavoidable lane turns.

Juveniles caught stealing instruments

Police arrested an 11-year-old boy July 30 after he and two girls were caught with musical instruments taken from Prather Elementary School.

Police saw them carrying some of the instruments at 5:35 p.m. in the 2300 block of W. 25th Street. The other instruments were recovered from behind some bushes nearby.

The girls told police the boy had told them he had permission to take the items, which he handed out to them through a window he had climbed through. The girls were released to their parents, but the boy, who had been arrested in June in another burglary, was charged under the juvenile code.

Taken were three chimes, two tambourines, a cymbal, two sets of bells, a set of box chimes and eight sets of drumsticks.

Woman stabbed by girl

Vera Glaspie, 19, of Dixon, Mo., told police she was stabbed in the abdomen July 30 by a girl she estimated to be 15 years old while Glaspie was visiting at a residence in the 2100 block of Benton Street.

A shallow wound was inflicted. Glaspie told police she thought the assailant, a blonde, lives in Kirkpatrick Homes. Glaspie was treated and released at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Antique watches taken

Vida A. Murphy of the 2800 block of West 20th Street reported that somebody burglarized her residence during the week-end of July 28-30. Entry was gained by prying open the front door.

Taken was a collection of 50 antique watches, collected by Murphy's deceased husband. Also taken were two tents, a Coleman lantern, a Coleman camp stove, a sleeping bag, a cooler and assorted dishes.

David A. Meyer, 27, of Belleville was arrested July 27 on a Granite City warrant alleging burglary.

Allegedly voices threat

Clarence G. Fospischel, 47, of the 2100 block of Alexander Avenue was charged with aggravated assault for allegedly threatening to burn down the home of Bonnie Collision of the 2100 block of Grand Avenue.

Police saw the suspect leaving Collision's yard and caught him hiding in an alley. The incident happened at about 9 p.m. July 28.

Vandal damages 3 autos

Somebody applied a glue-like substance to three cars in the 3100 block of Princeton Avenue during the night of July 29-30.

The cars belonged to John Puscian, Florence E. Perkins and Ardell L. Degener, all of whom reside in the block. Perkins' car also sustained a punctured tire.

Arrested for marijuana

James R. Smith, 24, and John M. Garner, both of the 2100 block of Adams Street, were arrested and charged with possession of cannabis July 27. Police said they found the two sitting in a car with a bag containing a small amount of a leafy substance later identified as marijuana. A drug-sniffing police dog also found a residue of marijuana in the glove box.

Charged with possession of cannabis under 2.5 grams in weight, they were released on $52 bail each.

Tapes taken from vehicle

Marvin Kinworthy of the 2600 block of Propes Avenue reported someone broke a window to enter his parked car July 28 and took three cassette tapes.

Damage, battery alleged

Larry W. Farley, 22, of the 4500 block of Walter Avenue was booked for battery and criminal damage to property July 28 after he allegedly beat on a car with his fists and punched its driver.

Police said they broke up a crowd of people at about 1:15 a.m. at State Street and Fehling Road behind Granite City High School. The victim was Richard Bartholemey of Granite City. Three witnesses gave statements to police.

Farley was released on $204 bail.

Hits brother with pipe

A 16-year-old Granite City boy was arrested July 29 and charged with aggravated battery for beating his older brother on the head with a pipe.

It happened at about 2:40 a.m. in the 2100 block of Lee Avenue. The boy hit his brother with the pipe at least five times, according to witnesses. The brother, 23, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was treated and released.

Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The Madison County State's Attorney's Office is facing a critical shortage of prosecutors, several observers have said.

State's Attorney William Haine needs "some felony people badly," former prosecutor Ben Allen said. "They're about three felony prosecutors short."

Assistant State's Attorney Don Weber was forced to resign July 25 because of remarks that have been denounced as racist.

Three other assistants, Greg Erthaly, Jim Burke and Kit Morrissey, have resigned or announced their resignations. Haine now has eight full-time and five part-time assistants.

Several lawyers said such a shortage typically leads prosecutors to be more generous in plea-bargaining to avoid time-consuming trials.

Haine doesn't believe that will happen. "I don't think so, I hope not," he said. He hopes to hire one felony prosecutor and one misdemeanor prosecutor in the next few weeks.

Haine said he is concerned about the vacancies but has a few weeks to hire new attorneys. "We're recruiting, obviously," he said. "We were recruiting before Don left."

Graig Jensen, who has been an assistant state's attorney in Cook County for about three years but does not have extensive felony experience, joined the staff Aug. 1, Haine said.

The crunch won't come until September, Haine added.

Criminal dockets are usually heavy in September after a summer of less activity. But finding experienced prosecutors familiar with the local courts will be a difficult task, Allen said.

"There just isn't anybody over there capable of trying a big case and (Assistant State's Attorney Robert) Trone can't try them all," said a defense lawyer who asked not to be identified.

Haine said Weber was handling about 40 cases.

"I really don't know how they're going to handle the tough cases," Ben Allen said.

Former State's Attorney Dick Allen of Granite City said he thinks Haine should rehire Susan Jensen, a former prosecutor Haine fired about the same time he hired Weber.

She is "every bit as good as Don, without creating the other problems that Don got into," Dick Allen said.

Susan Jensen, now in private practice, declined to publicly discuss the situation. She has 10 years of experience as a prosecutor with four state's attorneys, having been fired in April 1989 in what Haine called a "reorganization" of the office which included the hiring of Weber, a former Republican state's attorney.

On Friday, Susan Jensen spent two hours in a conference at Haine's office. Earlier in the day, Haine acknowledged he was interested in hiring her but said the matter was still up for discussion.

Haine said he would be "in hog heaven" if he had three more felony prosecutors or one more misdemeanor prosecutor. But he said he doesn't have enough money in his budget for that. He added he would probably ask for "a little more" in the next budget.

But Haine should have some money to work with, since he won't be paying the salaries of the prosecutors who are gone, Ben Allen said. Weber, considered a part-time employee, was making $40,000 per year in the office.

United Way division leaders named

John E. "Jack" Lee III, general chairman of the 1990 Tri-Cities Area United Way campaign, has announced his division leaders for the upcoming fund-raising drive.

The fall fund drive will begin Thursday, Sept. 6, with a kickoff meeting at the AMVETS Hall in Madison. The money raised will be used to help support more than 23 local health and human care agencies serving the Quad City area.

Richard B. Kearns has been selected to be the vice chairman of the 1990 United Way campaign.

Kearns is president and owner of the Delivery Network Inc., formerly Fox Industries, which operates more than one million square feet of public warehouse facilities, a long-haul trucking company, a local drayage operation and a river terminal.

From 1961 to 1964, Kearns served with the 315th Army Security Agency attached to the 101st Airborne. He began working for Fox Industries in 1964 and became principal shareholder in 1985.

Kearns is currently president of the board of directors of the Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association and a board member of St. Elizabeth Medical Center and the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

He is also active with the Warehousing Education and Research Council, the St. Louis Traffic Club and the Civic Entrepreneur Organization.

Kearns and his wife, Barbara, have three sons, Paul, Michael and Brian.

Cindy Mills has been chosen to lead Division A, consisting of business and commercial interests.

Mills is a special education early-childhood teacher in Granite City Community Unit School District 9. Prior to her current position, she was a resource teacher for Maryville Elementary School. She has been with District 9 for 17 years.

In addition to Mills' professional duties, she has been an active volunteer for the United Way, the Special Olympics and the Tri-City Area YMCA.

Currently she holds the office of president of the Granite City Council for the Gifted. She also is a member of the Granite City Ambassadors and the Tenco Regional Preschool Advisory Committee. Mills and her husband, Stu, reside in Granite City and have three children, Lisa, Travis and Scooter.

George Knecht, subdistrict director of the United Steelworkers of America, will be spearheading the United Way professional division.

Knecht, a native of Granite City, has been an employee of the Steelworkers for 15 years. He also served two years as the AFL-CIO Community Services director for the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

His volunteer commitments include serving on the Advisory Council for Programs and Services for Older Persons at Belleville Area College, the Senior Aide Council at BAC and the Career Activities and Placement Advisory Council.

He is an active board member of the United Way and the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging. In addition, Knecht is a delegate to the Greater Madison County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

Knecht is married to the former Sharon Rogers and resides in the Collinsville area.

Michael R. Bilbrey, a partner with Bono, Goldenberg, Hopkins, Bilbrey & Hendricks, P.C., attorneys at law, has been selected to lead Division C, which includes government employees, schools, clubs, organizations and private donors.

Bilbrey, a native of Venice, is a graduate of Assumption High School and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He graduated from the St. Louis University School of Law in 1980.

His community activities include serving eight years as a board member of the YMCA, where he currently holds the office of first vice president.

He is also a member of the Speakers Bureau for the Citizens Committee for Joint Use of Scott Air Force Base and serves on the Maryville Economic Development Commission.

Bilbrey's professional affiliations include serving as vice president of the Tri-City Bar Association and as a member of both the Madison County Bar Association and the Illinois State Bar Association.

Bill Davidson will be leading the campaign's Division D, major industry, transportation and construction.

Davidson is president of the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis, a company whose principal function is the handling of freight cars between railroads serving the St. Louis-East St. Louis Gateway.

The TRRA owns and operates more than 208 miles of track on both sides of the Mississippi River. It serves all the railroads in the St. Louis Gateway and about 100 industries.

Davidson is actively involved in the community and serves as a member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association, the National Freight Association and the Boy Scouts of America.

He serves on the Missouri Committee for Economic Development, the Transport Museum Association and the board of directors of Tri-Cities Area United Way.

Lee, chairman of the fund drive, is the president and chairman of the board of The First National Bank in Madison.

Lee said, "Through the years, we learned the value of teamwork — that by working with others, we could do much more, and in much less time, than we could do on our own."

"Our United Way exemplifies this belief," said Lee. "We have an important job to do, and we have put together a strong team that we believe can generate the support needed to make the 1990 campaign a success."

Time to end board service

Paul Ray Bowler's testimony in federal court this week raises the question of whether he should stay any longer as a member and officer of the Granite City Board of Education. He has not yet been sentenced after pleading guilty in February 1989 to making a false statement on a federal housing loan application. Many assumed that, once sentenced, he would leave the board, voluntarily or otherwise. Although Mr. Bowler technically remains eligible for board membership at this time, the public has noted his testimony in a case related to real estate transactions. He said on the witness stand that he knowingly committed fraud in order to buy property at less than its assessed value, have a second contract written for its full value, borrow the higher amount and pocket the difference. Fast school board accomplishments aside, fraud is not the right kind of example for students, and we see no benefit to anyone from a further extension of board service that has been based for a year and a half on a technicality.

Solid future for GC Steel

Comments by the new chairman and new president of National Steel Corp. at the 1990 Granite City Ambassadors dinner indicate that the steel company has ambitious and soundly-based plans for its Granite City, Chicago area and Detroit area divisions.

National Steel no longer has its Weirton, W. Va., plant but it is still the fifth largest steel producer in America. And 70 percent of NSC is owned by Nippon Kokan, second largest steelmaker in Japan, the sixth largest in the world and a recognized leader in advanced steel technology.

As Chairman Kokichi Hagiwara said here, "National Steel will be a stronger company than ever. NKK's principal business is, and will continue to be, steel. Access to that technology, and to Japanese sources of financing, has done much to help National Steel's recovery over the past six years. (We want) to make National Steel America's top steelmaker."

President Ronald Doerr fine-tuned the "top steelmaker" objective: "Not necessarily the biggest, but certainly the best." With $1 billion invested in new equipment and plant modernizations by National Steel since 1984, the company plans to continue plowing back $200 million a year. Granite City Steel alone has spent more than $1 billion with local firms over the years.

From the 1980s to the 1990s, steel manufacturing and the city named after its principal factory have had a mutually beneficial relationship, one that is destined to be enhanced even further in this century and the next.

Such a positive outlook is wonderful news for Granite City, where 1,500 employees and 750 retirees live, and for the surrounding area. Keys to the bright future are ever-improving skills, techniques and product quality.

City can spur development

The progress of the QuikTrip development of the former Novotny Chevrolet site on Madison Avenue and the loan to River City Plastic Recycling of the former Koetting Ford site down the street remind us it really is possible for the Granite City Council to make positive things happen downtown.

Unfortunately, it also reminds us that the council's back had to be against the wall first.

In the case of the car dealers, the city worked out the deal for the auto center on Illinois 3 at a time Novotny's lease was about to run out. Koetting was under pressure to relocate and another municipality was offering them free land.

When QuikTrip's problems with removing underground tanks and demolishing buildings made development unlikely, the city somehow came up with funds to save the project. Most recently, River City was about to drop its Granite City plans, so the aldermen held a special council meeting just to approve the loan of the former Koetting building.

Looking out over the rest of downtown, we know the city can make things happen when it works hard. When it only needs to, why can't it do the same thing?

Readers take on editor role

There are two ways of looking at it. One, the few results I got in my recent "You Be the Editor" survey either show darn few people want to be editor or darn few are capable.

Or two, three people out there could easily take my job.

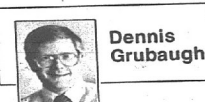

Still, the results in my recent reader challenge, which you'll find in specific on the next page, left me with the impression that most people agree with my sense of judgment on sensitive ethical issues. I agreed with most of the three respondents on nearly every question, although reasoning differed in some instances.

Before I get too haughty, I better remember theory and practice are vastly different in this business. It's easy to say you'd make a decision one way, tougher to do it.

A couple of weeks ago I posed 10 tough ethical questions to readers to see how many would respond and how closely they would come to my own decisions. Three people, Marilyn Ronney and Lorraine Fegley of Granite City and Don Garrett of Madison, were worthy of the challenge.

Said Fegley: "Just for kicks, I decided to answer the questions according to my personal views. I don't claim to be correct. Being an editor must be difficult. Printing the news involves so many things such as a potential libel suit, destruction of someone's good name, grief of the family or families involved and many other things. But according to my thoughts and conscience, I decided to give it a try."

Garrett, who is also a Madison County Board member and a former Metro East journalist, couldn't resist the challenge. Like you, I know what it means to be "second-guessed." It's been said that it doesn't matter whether you win or lose, but it's how you play the game. With that in mind, I have decided to indulge myself in your game by following one of journalism's oldest "rules," "Hew to the line, let the quips fall where they may."

Ronney had some of the most thoughtful answers in her response. She figures readers should be smart enough to know the difference between what can't be printed and what should be. "Never would I want our newspaper to become another tabloid scandal sheet. However, I do believe in 'freedom of the press' and that freedom should mean that we the readers have intelligent responsibility in discerning fact from possibility."

I have been faced personally with some of the issues shown on the following page. For instance, bad language at council meetings, employees who broke the law, big advertiser scandals, accident scene photos. A couple of others I am familiar with from other newspapers. One or two, I dreamed up.

Nothing like an honest editor, is there?

Selective law enforcement

To the editor:

Last week, four youths were arrested for throwing eggs at a car. This car, the article stated, was owned by a police officer.

In the past five years, my immediate family had been victimized seven times: Two incidents of arson, a theft, a robbery, an egg throwing incident, a hit-and-run and reckless conduct.

In two of the above incidents the perpetrator could not only be identified, but license numbers of the vehicles could be given to us.

None of these crimes were ever provoked.

Now, yesterday afternoon, I awoke to find a citation in the window of a vehicle I have been given permission to use, as it's easier to load my wheelchair onto when I need it. Or maybe to go fishing.

When I questioned this at the local police station, I was told in a cross manner that this vehicle had been watched and was sitting for a long time undriven.

Then I was told that it had debris under it, and then told that — even though it is owned by an elderly woman who suffered a stroke, the registration came from another county.

Since I had used it, I am to buy a city sticker for it! Incidentally, the debris turned out to be twigs from the neighbor's tree and a paper cup from McDonald's.

Rather than watching parked cars of the elderly and crippled, who are intimidated, let's see some enforcement in the area of child abuse, drug trafficking, drunk driving and under-age drinking.

Trash is for alley, not street

To the editor:

Talk about a good idea gone bad! Recently, the city undertook a campaign to beautify East Granite. The city has urged homeowners in this area to improve and beautify their property. This is a very good project that's long overdue.

But somewhere, someone has taken the steps to ruin the whole project. Who's idea was it to start curbside garbage pickup? Not only does this make the streets look disgusting, it's a traffic hazard on Granite City's many one-way streets.

With cars parked on both sides of the street, there is no room to avoid these trucks as they slowly proceed along their routes. To drive down Madison Avenue on trash day I'm sure is quite the treat for anyone who might be passing through town or maybe considering moving here.

The situation only gets worse when we have to deal with dogs, squirrels, and birds that love to tear holes in the bags.

Now the city's involved with cleaning up the alleys. Not that this isn't needed, but why? Since we no longer use the alleys for trash collection, what will they become?

Will they become secondary streets to use on trash day to get around the trucks or will they be used for trails that people can use to take walks down?

How much of our tax money will be spent to clean our alleys? What are alleys for?

I urge for a better idea it was for curbside collection to drive around East Granite on trash day. Look at all the garbage and trash. Also, look at all the large items being discarded that people are instructed to set next to their trash for the city to pick up.

It's an eyesore, a possible health risk and an insult to the homeowner trying to keep his yard and home as neat and attractive as he can.

Alleys are for garbage and trash. City inspectors can inspect them and enforce ordinances aimed at maintaining safe and clean alleys. But the main purpose of alleys has always been for trash collection.

This gets the garbage trucks off city streets and it puts the trash and garbage out of sight of people who are passing through and people who just don't want to look at trash-lined streets.

No one wants to look at their neighbors' garbage, let alone the whole neighborhood's. If people are neglecting their alleys, let the city enforce their laws and have homeowners be responsible for the alley's upkeep.

But, please, let's put our garbage back in the alleys where it belongs, not in our front yards.

Pontoon needs recreation

To the editor:

The children of the Pontoon Beach area have no recreation area. They can use the Granite City parks but have very little transportation.

Ground was donated for this purpose, but the summer is almost over and still nothing has been done. We need baseball diamonds badly.

Children play ball in the streets when they don't come to my house and play checkers and make popcorn.

A skating rink out here is their only recreation facility. Can't something be done about this, and soon, Mayor Glen Wilson?

Our library is run by volunteers. How about playground facilities, run by people receiving food stamps, public aid, medical cards and HUD paying their rent?

Utilize these people. They are getting paid far more than someone trying to work on minimum wage.

'Sunday best' shows respect

To the editor:

Mike Peters' editorial cartoon July 12 was a cheap shot, not only at Catholics, but at all Christians.

Jesus Christ doesn't care how we look when He saves us. Apparently, Peters forgot that Our Lord accepted the prayer of a dying thief on the cross, even though the thief was not exactly dressed in style.

The priest whose ruling inspired Peters' cartoon feels, simply, that how you dress for a church service reflects your love and respect for Jesus Christ.

To him, and a lot of other people, Catholics and Protestants alike, it means showing reverence in wearing your "Sunday best," rather than what you'd wear to clean out the garage.

Think of it this way: If you knew Our Lord Himself was present in your church service, would you really want to wear that Bart Simpson T-shirt?

20-team tournament held here

To the editor:

I would like to publicly thank the following people for their help in hosting the 20-team "Tournament of Champions," which ran from June 30-July 3:

These people worked long hours in very hot weather to make Granite City's part in this tournament a "class act" and I feel they succeeded most admirably. Since no pay was involved, you might be excused if you make a quick assumption and conclude (as I do) that these people are worth knowing.

As usual, Manager Ralph Burnett and Coach Tom Hennrich did a good job of organizing and were ably assisted by Nate Bailey, Kelly Hodges and Jerry McKechnie.

Equally as important was the "off-stage" performances of the following people: Debbie Bailey, Lynnette Burnett, Rodney and Connie Ballard, Carrie Brown, Dave Cavaness, Chuck Gantz, Jim and Nancy Harshy, Darlene Harrigan, Jack Hennrich, Shirley Kowalk, Gene Livingston, Rose Morland, Christie Mowell, Mike and Carla Peery and Rich Schardan.

My thanks also to Dave Whaley and the Press-Record/Journal for the coverage of the event. You are all entitled to take a bow.

If I have misspelled or omitted any names, my apologies in advance.

More animals being adopted

To the editor:

My year of working as shelter photographer with the Association for the Protection of Animals is now at an end and I am no longer working with the APA of Granite City. I thank you and your staff for assisting me and the shelter in the animal adoption program.

In the entire year of 1989, the APA found homes for 177 animals.

From January to May of 1990, over 162 animals have been placed into adoptive families. Much of this is due to the cooperation of the Press-Record/Journal with the APA.

You be the editor: Readers respond

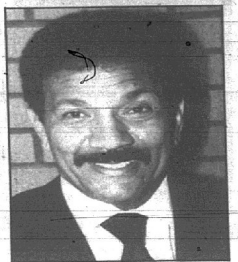

A few weeks ago Managing Editor Dennis Grubaugh challenged readers to match wits on some difficult editorial decisions. He posed 10 tough questions, shown in the left-hand column. Three readers lived up to that challenge. Their responses are shown below their photos on this page. Compare how they would have handled these ethical issues with the way the editor himself would have done. Then think about how you might have done it yourself. The editor has a related column on Page 4A.

1. A prominent minister is accused of a morals crime, but not yet charged. Do you print the story? Or do you wait until charges are filed and then print the story?

1. In the arrest of the minister, yes, you should reveal what is known. News travels fast in this town, whether or not you print it. We have an obligation to our children and young people to issue caution in association (in this case, the minister).

1. Wait until charges are filed and print it.

1. Print the story, yes. But leave out details that identify the individual. At this point, you only have an accusation, and no formal charges have been filed.

1. If the nature of the crime is of the type that the paper would normally publicize, details of the story, except for the name of the accused, would be included. The name comes with the charges.

2. A man is found innocent in a rape case. Do you print the name of the woman making the accusation?

2. Because the man is found innocent of rape, yes, his accuser should be named. This may make others think twice before making a false accusation.

2. Yes.

2. No need to print the name of the woman. Apparently no one is claiming that the woman made false charges. Being found innocent only means that the jury did not believe there was sufficient evidence to return a guilty verdict. If the woman's name is printed, you would deter other women from bringing charges in other rape cases.

2. Not always. While a man's reputation has been placed on the line by these accusations, determination of innocence does not necessarily mandate that the accuser be identified. If the accusations are clearly proven to be false, I would identify the accuser. But a jury's finding of innocence doesn't prove the woman wasn't raped. Her identity, therefore, sometimes needs to be protected.

3. A staff photographer turns in a photo of a spectacular fatal accident scene, with the victim plainly in view. What do you do?

3. Too many people enjoy horror scenes. But a spectacular picture of this fatality may cause those to think twice before taking a foolish chance. It would be nice to check with the family of the deceased first and explain your reasoning.

3. Print the picture.

3. With no more to go on than your description, that is, without having seen how barbaric or obscene the photo, I would say print the photograph. Not only is it newsworthy, but it would serve as a reminder to all who saw it and would undoubtedly save many lives.

3. I would not run the photo. Another view, which shows sensitivity to the victim's family, would be appropriate.

4. You uncover a scandal involving the largest advertiser in town. The story will hurt his business, his employees and you. What do you do?

4. You have a moral obligation to reveal the facts. This is why our nation is in deep trouble now with the savings and loans. How many more people will be hurt before the scandal involving the advertiser "gets out"?

4. That is a tough one. Advertising pays the bills. Right? But in good conscience I would have to print it, giving only the barest details. No embellishments here.

4. Print the story.

4. I would print the story. "Scandal" could mean a variety of things, but generally it denotes something newsworthy. Biggest advertiser, however, means an entity affecting the lives of many people in town. I would make darn sure both sides of the story are told. Businessmen don't like negative publicity, but they like unfair publicity even less.

5. A prominent family gets involved in a child-custody case, with one of the parents accusing the other of child abuse. Do you print the story? If so, whose names are included?

5. No, I don't think child-custody cases are necessary in a good newspaper, unless the welfare of the child is at stake: emotional, physical, moral and educational well-being. We, all citizens, are responsible for our children.

5. I would have to print the story, giving all of the names involved. Be sure to tell who is accusing who of what. Do not use Mr. and Mrs. Jones, that could be confusing to the reader. Say Mary Jones or John Jones. Repeat the names every time they are used in connection with the story.

5. Print the story. Leave out the name of the child.

5. I would not print this story, unless some element of it became a matter of criminal conduct. What happens in a family's household is not anyone else's business, until or unless it impedes on the rights of someone else.

6. An employee of the paper is charged with shoplifting. Although the paper's policy is not to report on shoplifting, you know that to omit this would mean accusations of favoritism. What do you do?

6. Shoplifting is shoplifting no matter where the place of employment. Police reports are published, or they are not. You have made that choice.

6. Do not print it. But, this might be a good time to run an article on the newspaper's policy of not reporting on shoplifting. The article could contain reasons why, such as relating an amusing anecdote of someone inadvertently carrying something out of a store.

6. Stick to your paper's policy. Hew to the line.

6. Policy is policy — I would not publish the story. However, if the crime were drunken driving or robbery, which we typically report, I would not think twice about it.

7. A prominent man commits suicide. What do you say in the paper?

7. I think you did an OK job when this occurred a couple of years back. Simply state the facts and nothing more in regards to the suicide. The family is hurting enough.

7. I would print it — only the bare facts. If a suicide note was left, mention it, but if there was none, do not even mention that there were odd circumstances surrounding the death. "He was found hanged" "He was shot to death by a gun lying near the body."

7. If a prominent man commits suicide you should say just that in your newspaper. His name, address, and any other pertinent info, including the reason for the suicide should be mentioned.

7. The obituary should not make reference to suicide. The individual's prominence, however, would likely prompt a secondary story. It is in that forum that the details can be used. Note: "A self-inflicted gunshot wound" does not necessarily mean suicide. Accidents do happen.

8. A city councilman uses a spate of obscene language in getting his point across during a council meeting. Do you repeat his remarks?

8. No reader should be embarrassed by obscenity in our newspaper. Just use the word "expletive" and let it go at that.

8. I would print the facts, but omit all obscenities. If they were numerous, I would print blanks instead of foul language.

8. It is "news" that he used obscene language, and that should be reported. A description of the language, such as "obscene," "four-lettered," etc., will suffice. Repetition of his actual words would serve no necessary purpose, and would render your newspaper "obscene."

8. Constituents often do not realize the kind of people they have in public office, and those likely to be offended by such language are entitled to know that the officeholder readily uses it. However, the dash method (i.e., I'm so mad!) is preferable to the more over the top alternative, especially in a paper read by the family.

9. A mayor is hospitalized with a mysterious illness. You discover through sources that it is AIDS. What do you report?

9. AIDS should no longer be in the cellar. The public must be educated to know about this horrible affliction. Certainly we want to know about our mayor when he is in good health and when he needs special prayers.

9. I would not print the word AIDS in relation to anyone's illness unless a hospital spokesperson could be quoted as having said it. And, then, only if I had the medical person's name to print.

9. If your sources are members of the mayor's immediate family or doctors involved with his illness, then you should report the illness and its diagnosis.

9. Any figure as important as the mayor lives life in a fishbowl. Illnesses, therefore, are of reader interest. Add to that the importance AIDS has taken on in the last decade, and the story must be printed. That does not mean, however, that each new case of AIDS deserves publicity.

10. A city appointee is fired under mysterious circumstances. You find out it was because of improper use of city money, involving an affair with another city employee. What do you report?

10. Tell the story about the city appointee. City money is our money, and we need to know where it is being used. Too much is kept hushed-up in our town, and it is time someone has the courage to speak up. We count on the Press-Record/Journal to do exactly this.

10. Again, I would stick to the facts. I am not an advocate of the trashy tabloids which are read by so many. I would endeavor to print only the truth which can be backed up by direct quotes from qualified people.

10. Certainly you must report that the city appointee was fired because of improper expenditures of city money. If the other city employee was in any way involved with the actual criminal act, print that fact. If not, do not mention the name of the other employee.

10. What a scenario! Improper use of public funds must be accounted for by any responsible newspaper. That means including the names of those who are responsible. However, unless "the affair" is important to the story, I don't see where printing that information does more than titillate the reader.

Pete Krieschok of Granite City recently renewed his friendship with a fellow warrior from a World War II U.S. Navy Air Squadron after believing for the past 46 years that the man had been lost in Pacific Theatre naval operations in late 1944.

"It was early in 1944 when I lost my pilot, Arnold 'Eric' Erickson," Krieschok said. "Our carrier division had just been involved in seven major engagements and was being sent back to the States via Pearl Harbor. Eric left the group to become an LSO (landing signal officer) aboard a big new aircraft carrier."

"Radioman Gregg Toelkes was sent here for a visit to Advanced Radar School and I was sent to Pre-Flight School at Athens, Ga."

"While there, I heard that Eric's carrier had been severely damaged by Japanese kamikaze attacks and that Eric was among the Air Group that was lost," Krieschok said. "But in late May, the local man got a big surprise."

"I received a phone call one day and the caller asked if I was the same Pete Krieschok who was an aerial gunner in Squadron VC-7, the war. I answered 'Yes.'"

"I'm Eric, your old pilot," the caller told Krieschok. "I was a little shocked, but very glad to talk to him."

Erickson, who now lives in Ohio, came here for a visit. "We had a nice visit and a gab session and we plan to meet again this September."

The monthly meeting of the Ruth Bible Class was held in the Fellowship Hall at Calvary Baptist Church.

A devotional on "Prayer and its Importance," taken from "Transmuting Love" by Lloyd Ogilvie, was given by Ruth Moser. Thelma Phelps, class secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and Louella Propes, class treasurer, gave the financial report.

Phyllis Knight, cheer chairman, gave a report on cards sent and calls made to the sick and shut-ins. Dorothy Barylske, captain of the Outreach Leaders Group, gave her report on visitation and reviewed calls made by all group members.

Plans were announced by Pauline Weir, class teacher, for three "mystery trips" in August and September, plus a cake and ice cream social Aug. 21.

Games were played and prizes were won by Weir, Louella Propes and Barylske.

Refreshments were served by Propes, the hostess, to the above and to Martin Leavell, Maxine Hoover, Irene Wilkenson, Grace Cruise, Mary Hoover, Lorraine Thompson and Retta Lombardi.

Tini Buchanan returned to her home in Piedmont, Mo., last Friday, after spending several days with her sister, Sylvia Massman.

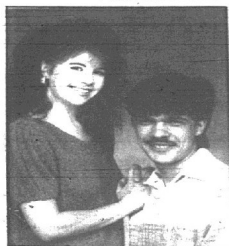

Helen Jessie of Detroit is spending a week visiting her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John (Sharon) Ryan and daughter, Ruthy.

Saints Alive is planning an Aug. 20 trip to Brussels, Ill. Departure time is 11 a.m. from the Third Baptist Church. Lunch will be served at the Whitman Dining Room. Call 931-MCBA before Aug. 15 to make reservations for the trip.

The July 1990 issue of the "Medical Intestines" has published an article written by Dr. M.G. Baggot, a widely-known Granite City physician. The article is titled, "Physiological Ambivalence, Chronic Obstructive Bowel Disease and the Consequences of Contractile Organs." The abstract states every therapy has some theoretical basis that must be constantly re-evaluated according to results. The theory asserts that the body is composed of similar organs that are subject to similar disorders.

Act 12:8 "Peter therefore was kept in prison: but prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him."

Here the king has already killed James the brother of John. Now Peter was imprisoned and death was sure to be his fate.

The time had come for serious prayer. The church dropped all for malities. God's people began to cry out. This was not the time for choosing the right word, not for proper inflection of the voice. Peter would die. The church prayed without ceasing unto God!

Perhaps you are in a crisis situation. Sick, afflicted, out of work, marriage on the rocks, etc. If so, then it's time to pray. Tell God what you need out of your heart. If you are sincere that sincerity will move God quicker than any words your lips can form.

God saw it that Peter was set free. God will answer your prayers too. You don't need experience to pray. Just a need that only God can supply.

Why not pray today?

Why not pray today?

She had been ill for two years and a patient for nine days.

Born June 3, 1919, in DeKalb, Ala., she had resided in Granite City since 1960. Mrs. Conner was a member of Calvary Pentecostal Church in Granite City.

Surviving are four sons, Luther Taylor of Bunker Hill and James Taylor, Ray Taylor and Lavon Taylor, all of Granite City; three daughters, Eunice Morgan of Brewton, Ala., Mrs. Buford (Joyce) Hatfield of Altmore, Ala., and Mrs. Lavon (Elizabeth) Beasley of Milton, Fla.; one brother, Arvil Portwood of Prattville, Ala.; 15 grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Leo Taylor, who died Oct. 5, 1959, and one daughter.

Visitation will be held today from 4 to 8 p.m. at Mercer Mortuary, 4146 Niedringhaus Ave., where funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday with the Rev. Harold Maynard officiating. Burial will be at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

The family suggests memorials to the American Diabetes Association.

The construction grant, which would be obtained from the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, would be combined with local funding sources to pay for the project, which has been estimated to cost between $35 million and $45 million.

Bauman is a former employee of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

A preliminary study predicted the Aquacenter would attract 880,000 visitors in its first year. The Aquacenter is described as a vehicle to educate and promote awareness of the aquatic environment through exhibits and educational opportunities. It would focus on the regional history of the Midwest and the evolution of the Mississippi River.

The maximum potential grant for a civic center is $20 million, and the authority previously has been awarded $3.2 million in grants for its Gateway Center conversion facilities.

To qualify under a funding formula for more grant funds, the authority would have to increase its base of assessed valuation by expanding its boundaries. The authority's boundaries are currently the Collinsville city limits.

Brombolich said there have been preliminary discussions about the expansion of the boundaries.

Maag questioned Bowler about whether his attempts in 1994 to purchase Charlie's Restaurant in Granite City, the Oakmont Shopping Center in Pontoon Beach, some motels in St. Petersburg, Fla., and an office building and other commercial properties in St. Louis had been his idea or Flood's.

The purchase price of each of those properties exceeded a half-million dollars and several exceeded a million dollars.

Bowler said the idea was his: "Sir, I never denied trying to buy property."

Maag asked Bowler how, since at the time he was without a job, had no savings, had no income and had an overdrawn checking account, he planned to buy all the properties.

"Just like all the others," Bowler said. "That's how it was done. If something was priced at $30,000 and worth $40,000 and you got a loan for 80 percent — that's $32,000 — then you had $2,000 left over."

"I don't know exactly how it happened, but Gaye assured me it could happen and, after I started, I believed anything could happen. It was just like clockwork: the Florida property, Charlie's, everything."

"I truly believed the system worked. It worked time and time again, and I was amazed. I guess I'm pretty stupid and naive, but I believed it could work. That's what I believed."

Merla

there would be great," Merla said.

He said he will visit periodically each of the foreign plants to which he is assigned, after spending at least a year learning his new position in Switzerland. "It's an opportunity to have a corporate job rather than a field job and I expressed interest in doing that," Merla said.

Merla received a degree in winemaking from the University of California at Davis and began his career by working in the management of a Nestle-owned winery in California. Since then, his work for divisions of Nestle has taken him all over the United States. He has worked for Nestle for 18 years.

"We move a lot, but we've lived in this area longer than anywhere I've ever worked," Merla said.

Perhaps the most difficult part of the transition from life in Metro East to life in Switzerland will be the language differences. "I don't know French but I took some courses here recently," Merla said.

He added that his daughters

Maag questioned Bowler about his personal relationship with financial officials and other professionals involved in the loan and purchase process.

Bowler testified he knew many of them from Friday happy hours at Charlie's, but didn't ask them for any favors and didn't remember specifically discussing his loans or purchases with them.

Under Maag's questioning, Bowler said Barbara Hodges, his "paramour," had gotten a real estate license sometime after Bowler's dealings with Flood and had, at one time, worked for Flood at Eagle Realty in Granite City. But, Bowler said, Hodges never made any real estate deals for him.

Maag also questioned Bowler about his plea agreement with the U.S. attorney's office.

Two of the points Maag stressed were that Bowler would not be charged for any illegal action he admitted during the investigation followed this guilty plea, and that the U.S. attorneys would evaluate the effectiveness of his testimony and give an account of Bowler's cooperation when he is sentenced for the one count to which he pleaded guilty.

Maag asked Bowler if he thought the more perjury he implicated, the better it would be for him.

Bowler said that's not the way he understood the agreement.

Asked what he hoped to get as a result of his testimony, Bowler said he hoped to stay out of jail.

After Bowler's testimony, Judge William Stiehl instructed the jury that, although Bowler had promised truthful testimony in the plea agreement, the government was not vouching for the truthfulness of his testimony.

"It's up to you to determine the veracity of this and all other witnesses," Stiehl said.

In defense testimony, Robert Patrick of Granite City testified he had filled out Bowler's loan application for Lomas and Nettleton, the Pine Street property. Patrick said it was filled out during a meeting with Bowler at Charlie's Restaurant.

Under cross-examination, Bowler said the application had not been filled out at Charlie's.

Patrick testified he knew Bowler socially, and during 1983 to 1984, period Bowler seemed excited about a real estate course he had taken; Bowler told Patrick one of the instructors was helping Bowler get started.

Bowler discussed real estate with him, Patrick testified, but he never had any real estate deals.

Asked if Bowler had seemed to understand trusts, Patrick said, "He acted like he knew what he was doing, but I had my doubts."

Biscopek comes to Granite City from Rolling, Pa., where he was vice president of manufacturing for the Bachman Company.

"Originally" from Louisville, Ky., he has worked in the eastern United States for 10 years. He received a bachelor's degree in chemistry and a master's degree in business from Murray State University.

"All I've ever done is be involved in the food business," Biscopek said.

He said he is confident that the Nestle plant here will continue to be a vital part of the Nestle system. He cited more than $25 million in improvements that have been pumped into the Nestle facility by the giant food corporation over the past several years.

"We intend to continue to invest in developing the skill levels of the people we have here," Biscopek said. "We continue to be optimistic about doing business in the area." He added that the plant may be producing more Nestle products in the future.

"The most efficient operations are the ones that attract the volume," Biscopek said. There are "a couple of products still in the development stage" that the local plant would like to attract.

Satisfied customers chief goal of new National Steel operating chief

A former "bean counter" (auditor), Ronald H. Doerr has moved into the operating end of the steel business in a big way.

Now president and chief operating officer of National Steel Corporation, Doerr was among those here in late July to accept Granite City's Ambassador's salute to NSC's Granite City Division.

Formerly with Granite City Steel, Doerr for the last eight years has been an executive at the corporate headquarters in Pittsburgh.

JOINING GRANITE CITY Steel in 1966, Doerr worked in a number of accounting and financial positions before being named controller in 1974.

In 1976, the Washington University (St. Louis) graduate was transferred to National's Great Lakes Division (Ecorse, Mich.), where he became vice president and controller in 1982. Later that year, he was named assistant to the president and group director at Great Lakes.

Doerr next was promoted to NSC vice president and controller and became vice president of finance in September 1984, executive vice president in June 1987 and president June 26, 1990.

"NATIONAL STEEL has come a long way since the mid-1980s. Those were not happy times for the American steel industry or for National Steel," Doerr recalled at the Ambassador's dinner.

"In 1988, we lost nearly $60 million. But the market (for steel) began to turn around in 1987, and so did we. We made $50 million, then $88 million in 1988 and, last year, a little over $85 million.

"Our chairman and chief executive officer, Kokichi Hagihara, said he would like to see us earning $150 million a year in the very near future."

"OUR GOAL is an ambitious one. We want to become America's top steelmaker — not necessarily the biggest, but certainly the best."

"If we're going to achieve that goal, there are four things we must do," Doerr said.

"The first is to recognize that satisfying our customers is our number one priority. They're the ones who buy our products."

"They're the ones who pay our bills."

"TODAY'S STEEL MARKET is exceptionally competitive, and it's going to become even more competitive in the 1990s.

Bill Winter

"So, if we don't produce a superior-quality product, deliver it on time — and show by our attitude that we really want their business — our customers will buy from someone else."

"No business opportunity is ever lost entirely. If you fumble it, your competition will surely find it."

"THE SECOND THING we must do is help make our employees the best in the business. Job requirements in our mills are changing dramatically."

"Lots more computers, sensing devices and sophisticated process controls are being used today."

"It means that we must provide better training and help our employees develop new skills."

"WE WANT TO TREAT our employees as partners in the business and, when the company does well, we plan to share the rewards with them."

"The third thing we have to do is to provide a superior-quality product, the best in the market place."

"In 1984, we issued a challenge to the Granite City Division."

"National Steel had 'just sold its Weirton (W.Va.) Division. Weirton made the basic steel that gets shipped to our mill products, a high-quality product used to make cans and containers."

"GRANITE CITY employees, starting from scratch, began to learn how to make the basic steel that gets shipped to our Midwest Division (Portage, Ind.), where it's finished into tinplate."

"Today, six years later, National is regarded by can makers as the best-quality tin mill products producer in the country."

"That's a great quality success story."

"OUR GRANITE CITY plant's partnership with the A.O. Smith Corp. plant here — and the quality, delivery, and service we provide — have helped them to become a Ford Motor Company Q-1 Award winner."

"Those are two examples, working with Midwest and A.O.

Smith, of the kind of quality we must build into all of our products, at all of our divisions, all through National Steel."

"FINALLY, WE NEED to continue our aggressive capital investment program."

"Since 1984, we've invested over $1 billion in new equipment and plant modernization."

"We're spending at the rate of about $200 million a year and we plan to continue that in the 1990s."

"Near the end of this year, we will start a second continuous caster at Granite City. That new caster will make the Granite City Division a 100 percent continuous cast steel producer."

"THE MOST MODERN steel-making process in the world today, the new caster will also make National Steel (the nation's fifth largest steelmaker) America's first major steel company to cast 100 percent of its product," Doerr said.

"You'll be hearing more about these accomplishments near the end of this year."

"And if we're able to achieve our four goals — customer satisfaction, better training, superior quality and continued investment — we will become the best steel company in America."

Officials praise new disabilities law

By Sons Lyngær
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — President George Bush received overwhelming applause from area lawmakers for signing the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) on July 26.

"The sweeping legislation is expected to set a precedent in protecting the disabled from discrimination in employment and public accommodations. It also requires that public transportation and telecommunications be accessible to an estimated 43 million disabled Americans."

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, a co-sponsor, called it "the bill of rights for the disabled in this country. I'm very pleased that the President signed it into law."

U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, who also co-sponsored the bill, said the measure is long overdue.

"I don't think we ever should have been discriminating against people because of their disabilities," said Poshard. "Disabled people are some of the most able people I know."

Joining more than 2,000 disabled persons and disabled activists on the White House lawn during the signing ceremony, Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, expressed his support.

"This is a great day for the 43 million and also for all Americans because we will all benefit," Simon said.

"We are finally lifting the blanket of isolation and giving Americans their first opportunity for an equal chance to succeed in our society," Simon called the law a "declaration of independence" for the disabled.

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, agreed with Simon and cited the efforts of Dixon's assistant, Connie Ammerman, who is deaf.

"Connie is a perfect example of how a person given equal opportunity and freedom can make great achievements."

"This legislation is significant for promoting the rights of those with disabilities. I am grateful that I was able to co-sponsor this bill."

The bill applies to public accommodations, public bus systems, public rail systems and private bus companies. It takes effect in August.

Meanwhile, an official with the Easter Seal Society of Southwestern Illinois was "thrilled" with the developments. "This day has been a long time in coming," said Dr. Warren Nieburg, president.

"The Easter Seal Society has worked for more than 70 years to help people of all ages and disabilities become as independent as they can be."

"This law will make it possible for all of us to welcome people with disabilities into the mainstream of American life. We've worked hard to reach this day," Nieburg said.

The 1990 Americans with Disabilities Act was passed in the House on July 12 by a vote of 377 to 28. It passed in the Senate on July 13 with 91 favorable votes and six against.

It was signed in an outdoor ceremony, witnessed by people in wheelchairs who filled the White House lawn.

The new law provides basic civil rights and new opportunities for those with a wide range of disabilities.

"The Easter Seal Society hopes to help our seven-county service area (Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Cahoon, Greene, Jersey and Macoupin) learn more about what the ADA will mean for them," said Carol Wike Nudo, executive director of Easter Seals, 462-8897. "We are available as a resource and delighted to help make this difference."

The Easter Seal Center is located in upper Alton, with satellite centers in Granite City and Belleville.

Services include speech/language therapy and evaluation, adult vocational training and evaluation, a toy-lending library and an equipment loan program.

JOHN GOODMAN, left, plays a local exterminator; Brian McNamara, center, portrays an entomology student; and Jeff Daniels is an anxious homeowner trying to rid his house of spiders in "Arachnophobia."

'Arachnophobia' spins web of fun, horror, adventure

By Harry Hamm
Staff writer

"Arachnophobia" (), is the best fun-horror film of the summer.

Produced by the combination of Disney's new Hollywood Pictures Co. and Steven Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment, this first-class film has outstanding technical credits, dual levels of adventure, a fine cast and ample humor — the best of which is supplied by St. Louisian John Goodman in the role of an exterminator with an Arnold Schwarzenegger complex.

The story is especially relevant because fear of spiders (as well as bugs, mice and rodents) is the most common phobia in the United States, according to a recent study of more than 18,000 people by the National Institute of Mental Health.

"Arachnophobia," which is derived from a combination of "arachne," the Greek word for spider, and "phobia," or fear, takes full advantage of this innate revulsion without pounding the audience to death with overtly gruesome scenes.

The film's first level of adventure starts in the beautiful but remote Angel Falls region of the Venezuelan rain forest. A team of scientists, led by Dr. James Atherton, a world-renowned entomologist played by Julian Sands, is on an expedition collecting rare butterflies. They accidentally stir up a colony of even rarer spiders who put the bite on the team's American photographer. The shutter-bug expires and is shipped back to his hometown of Canaima, Calif. Unfortunately for the citizens of this picturesque village in northern California, one of the killer spiders has hitched a ride in the casket.

The second level of adventure in "Arachnophobia," the more domestic variety, takes place in Canaima after the photographer's body arrives for burial. The town's new physician, Dr. Ross Jennings, played by Jeff Daniels, has moved with his family from San Francisco to replace the town's only other physician, Dr. Sam Metcalf, played by Henry Jones.

But Metcalf changes his mind about retiring and when the visiting spider from Venezuela starts spinning a web of destruction in Canaima, there is plenty of need for medical assistance as citizens start dying almost every day. Soon Jennings and Metcalf are at the forefront of unraveling the mysterious deaths and stemming the tide of destruction.

"Arachnophobia" skillfully combines the scope of a large scale Spielberg adventure with the always true feel for family happenings that is one of the hallmarks of Disney.

Real spiders are used in this film. You won't be watching mechanical fakes. The finale of "Arachnophobia" in which Jennings wages a one-man war on the spiders is realistic and very exciting.

This adventure-comedy film will entangle you with its authentic, edge-of-the-seat style. Rated PG-13 (violence involving spiders). Running time: 103 minutes. Rating guide:  excellent; , good; *, average; *, poor.

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

Ratings show some shifting, but KMOX still airwaves king

In St. Louis radio, the same station always occupies the top of the heap. But there is some movement among those stations scuffling on the slopes.

KMOX-AM (1120), despite what seems to be significantly reduced interest in the baseball Cardinals, remains unchallenged as the ratings leader according to the Nielsen ratings for the 1990 spring quarter, March 29-June 20.

The CBS-owned giant retained its stranglehold on adults with a 19.3 share of that listening audience. Share equals the percentage of the people in the area using radio at a given time.

In second was rocker KSHE-FM (94.7) with an 8.7 share — approximately the same rating it had for the previous quarter, but down a full point from last spring.

KMOX was up 3 points from the previous quarter, a predictable development with the beginning of baseball season and Cardinals' broadcasts. But the powerhouse station was down 2 points from the spring quarter of 1989, almost surely because of the dreadful performance of the Cardinals.

In any event, baseball is not much of a factor for the other stations in the market, where success apparently depends on what kind of music they play.

KEZZ-FM (102), which programs "easy listening," fell from fourth place with a 7.6 rating in the previous quarter to 5.5, seventh place in the latest ratings. KEZZ was in third place in spring 1989.

KLOU-FM (103), which has a "nostalgia" format featuring oldies from the '60s and '70s, as in ninth place with a 3.5 rating, significantly off its 5.2 of a year ago. Nevertheless, Debbie Milligan, a spokeswoman for the station, said KLOU's "demographics" remain healthy, with 89 percent of the station's audience between the ages of 25 and 54.

Ian MacBryde

Much of the radio audience, of course, consists of younger listeners who are not as appealing to many advertisers as their older cousins. Milligan also suggests that some other stations in the market have increased the number of oldies which they weave into their programming.

Incidentally, KSD-FM (93.7), which bills itself as classic rock, meaning it plays a lot of rock from the older era, also was significantly down from the previous quarter (4.9 from 6.7).

Meanwhile, the adult contemporary field seems to be fragmented with three stations — KJLV-FM (96), WSNL-FM (101), and KSTZ-FM (105) — well out of the Top 10. Sometimes you get the feeling there aren't enough of us contemporary adults to go around. On the other hand, KVKY-FM (98), which plays adult contemporary with a harder edge, has shown growth for the last year: 4.7 to 6.1.

KHTK-FM (97) is a current success story. Its most recent rating of 2.9/10th place, is up from 2.1 last quarter. KHTK and WKBF-FM (106) both program contemporary hits (with a hard edge) — Top 40 — so maybe that's where the audience is moving.

The Top 10 ratings for Spring '90, Winter '90 and Spring '89 are: KMOX-AM 19.3, 16.3, 21.2; KSHE-FM 8.7, 8.8, 9.7; KJLV-FM 7.9, 7.9, 5.7; WKBF-FM 6.9, 6.6, 6.1; WIL-FM 6.4, 5.8, 5.8; KVKY-FM 6.1, 5.3, 4.7; KEZZ-FM 5.5, 7.6, 8.1; KSD-FM 4.9, 6.7, 5.1; KLOU-FM 3.5, 3.8, 5.2; and KHTK-FM 2.9, 2.1, 0.8.

Goodwill Games:

Some action, much talk. For those who have access to WTBS through their friendly neighborhood cable system, the coverage of the Goodwill Games is an experience not to be missed. To me, at least, the program looks like the result of a train wreck involving "Nightline," "Wide World of Sports," and a telethon for world peace. Based on a so far limited viewing of it, the program's major problem seems to be that it is top-heavy with talking heads. There are ex-runners, ex-jumpers, ex-gymnasts, sports announcers, interpreters, a Soviet ex-jumper, and believe it or not, Larry King.

There also is too little action.

But the problems involved in broadcasting Ted Turner's invention are huge: several venues, lots of different sports, various degrees of understanding by people in the audience, nationalism and lots of languages.

As I said, it's tough to televise something like this, there's a lot of games left, and the telecast probably will get better. And, what the heck, at least we don't have to put up with Bryant Gumbel or Howard Cosell. Things could be a lot worse.

Paddlers defending home pool Saturday

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Now it's time to protect the home turf, er, waters.

Paddlers will try to reclaim the Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association championship when it hosts the main event Saturday at the home pool on Johnson Road. Paddlers has failed to win the SWISA finals only twice in the past decade, but last year was one of those times.

With the championships back in Granite City this year, the home team has a little extra motivation.

"The championships are always a big thing, but it's a little more important to our kids since it's at our pool this year," said Paddlers coach Celeste Furmanek. "Everybody has been talking about it since around the Fourth of July and the parents have been working really hard to have everything ready."

Furmanek is just hoping her swimmers will be ready. Paddlers once again went undefeated through the regular season, but that guarantees nothing. "Everyone has worked hard and has done real well all year, but we've seen that happen before," Furmanek said. "Montclair (last year's champion) and Gaslight are probably the two teams we have to watch."

groups have been solid this year, although all of them could be more consistent.

"The older kids are ones I've had for a while, and there are quite a few new ones among the younger age groups," she said. "But the fun is in watching them compete. The new swimmers got plenty of chances to compete in the meets this summer."

"Julie Golan has been a terrific role model for everyone. She has been to every practice. And Danny Niles has been a leader for us after having a year of college. Pat Curry will do well and Jeanne McMillan has improved a lot over last year."

The lazy days of summer gave way to one full day for all the marbles.

"I try to stress to them that it's a nine-week season, not just two weeks," Furmanek said. "But I can't tell them they're getting excited about Saturday. We've hosted the finals three or four times since I've been here and we've only played once by a few points to Summerhaven. Some of the older kids remember it and they say I don't want to go through that again with the younger ones. But I don't try to put any pressure on them."

The meet will start early Saturday morning and continue through the day. Paddlers was second to Summersport in the SWISA diving finals last Saturday.

POST 113 ALL-STARS at the District 22 All-Star Game were (in front) base Jonathon Burnett, middle row, Tom Seneczyn, Brian Harshany, Rich Schardan and Joe Wallace;

Post 113 makes presence felt Wallace MVP; Harshany, Seneczyn win All-Star Game

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS — Denied a shot at pro baseball this summer, Joe Wallace got something to show for his troubles on Tuesday.

For the second time in three seasons, a Granite City player was named the Most Valuable Player in District 22. Wallace, who batted close to .400 on the summer, received the plaque in pregame ceremonies at the District 22 All-Star Game at Long-acre Park.

The North Division won the game 4-3 as Post 113's Brian Harshany delivered a bases-loaded single off O'Fallon's Wesley Brooks in the bottom of the ninth. Tom Seneczyn of the Triplets pitched the top of the ninth and picked up the win after suffering the loss the night before. The District 22 all-stars lost that game 5-4 in Marissa to a group of Missouri all-stars.

There was no clear-cut choice for league MVP this year, certainly no one like Darin Hendrickson in 1988 when the Triplets righthander was 8-1 with an 0.78 ERA. Wallace might have received the honor on reputation as much as performance.

"Yeah, I was surprised," said Wallace. "But Ralph (Burnett) told me I might have a chance to win. I didn't feel real well this summer. I was disappointed I didn't go higher in the draft (22nd round) and that got me down for a while. And my hands have been slow with the bat the last few weeks."

"I've had a much better first half of the season," said Burnett. "But when it came down to it, most of the managers felt he was the right choice. My only worry was that he and Brian would split the votes, because Brian deserved some consideration, too."

Wallace opens a new chapter in a few weeks when he leaves for Oklahoma State.

"I need to rest a little, then get back in the batting cages and hit the weights," he said. "I want to be in shape when I get down there. I know Johnny Van Buskirk has been out running every day to get in shape for college (soccer at Indiana)."

Wallace was 1 for 3 in the All-Star Game and caught the first five innings. Harshany walked twice and was 0 for 2 before he connected with a deep blast over the center fielder's head with the bases loaded and no outs in the ninth. Harshany played the game at third base, but didn't have a defensive chance.

Rich Schardan played five innings at shortstop, handled two chances and made one error. He was also out stealing in the second, but pitched a scoreless sixth inning, striking out one and allowing one hit. Seneczyn walked one in the ninth, but picked up the win.

"What a night for the Warriors!" said Edwardsville's Mark Little, taking note that Granite City had the winning pitcher, the game-winning RBI and the league MVP.

"I think it shows that we're one of the top three teams in the league," said Burnett. "Edwardsville (the league champion) is the best, but we're right there with Belleville."

NOTES: Edwardsville will play in the 5th Division Tournament this weekend in Carlyle. Kent Vollert of Marissa was named Manager of the Year and Alton won the Sportsmanship Award. Burnett is still debating whether to return as manager next season. Tom Hennrich and Tim Hogan won't be back, but Burnett will make his decision by Aug. 16. "I really need to spend more time with (son) Jonathan," he said. "That's why Tommy is getting out. He's got two young daughters and he needs more time. He might be back in a few years. Harshany will play college ball at Lewis & Clark. Schardan is going to Lindenwood College and Seneczyn will pitch at Kaskaskia Community College. Harshany and Schardan will both be eligible to play Legion ball again next summer.

JULIE DEMPSEY signs her letter of intent to play soccer at Lindenwood College.

Dempsey signs letter with Lindenwood Lions

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Julie Dempsey learned a lot in high school — including how to deal with frustration. She should just about be ready for college soccer.

Dempsey, the sweeper for the Lady Warrior soccer team the last three seasons, has signed a letter of intent to play at Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Mo. Practice begins Aug. 12 for the Lions, coached by Debbie Washburn.

"They've had some fairly good teams in the past, and I really like the coach," Dempsey said of her choice. "I talked to Arkansas-Little Rock, but that was too far from home. Quincy College sounded real good, but Lindenwood has a very good academic reputation."

Dempsey will major in either psychology or communications. That's when she's not tackling the ball away from opposing attackers, something she did with great frequency while anchoring the Lady Warrior defense the past three seasons.

"I think I should get a chance to start," Dempsey said. "They're bringing seven freshmen in. We've been working out Saturdays for the last few weeks and it hasn't been that big of an adjustment from high school so far. And all the players get along real well."

Dempsey will be rooming with Collinsville's Jackie Herres, who no doubt will remind Dempsey often of her main source for high school frustration — the Lady Kahoks' three straight sectional championship wins over Granite City.

"I gave it all I had, but we were tired out this year from having played the night before," Dempsey said of the Lady Warriors' 3-0 loss to Collinsville on May 29. "They had nine seniors starting, so I guess they wanted it more than we did."

Dempsey believes she was well-prepared for college after three years playing for Gene Baker.

"He expects everyone to work hard, and I think some of the younger players were a little wary of that when they came into the program," she said. "But I loved playing for coach Baker. He put me back at the sweeper position and let me play my game. I think I'll be learning some new techniques in college. I've been working out and running to get in better shape."

Dempsey is playing with the Granite City Elks this summer along with most of the Lady Warrior players. The team is coached by Eddie Hagauer.

"We usually do pretty well at the beginning of the summer because we're just continuing from high school," she said. "We play to have fun and it helps us stay in shape."

Dempsey is the only senior from this year's team to receive a college soccer scholarship, but there figure to be many more in the next couple years as Granite City features a talented group of underclassmen.

"They should be awesome next year," said Dempsey.
